

Appendix K – Twilight Vampires Rule

What hobgoblin of little minds would swallow socialist healthcare bait - hook, line and sinker? Apparently we have Generation Y to thank for this, the latest group of Twilight vampires who got everything they ever wanted from doting parents and think this trend will continue unabated forever. We have the insolvency of Social Security and Medicare already, not to mention the imminent collapse of European socialism. But they want to double-down on yet another Ponzi scheme.

- ✓ “In fact, they've done past generations one better by voting for supporters of the mother of all Ponzi schemes - a Trojan horse single-payer healthcare system, delivered on the improbable slats of efficient government oversight, onerous penalties for noncompliance, and, as far as I can tell, more taxes on the rich and tanning salons ... The economy already groans and creaks under the weight of two massive Ponzi schemes. Sustaining a third is no sure thing. All Ponzi schemes eventually collapse, which is why many of us wish to remain on the sidelines” (Mauzy).

And who do we have to personally thank for piling this monstrous, unconstitutional bill upon our shoulders – besides Barak “Beelzebub” Obama? Don’t forget their names, because when this crime against humanity eventually kicks in, and American citizens are suffering in misery because of it, the constable needs to know who to arrest: Nancy “Screwtape” Pelosi and her sidekick, Harry “Wormwood” Reid. When you’re sharing a tongue depressor at the emergency room with an illegal drug cartel member and her private physician is making house calls to the Madame Defarge Winery in Napa, remember her name.

- ✓ “Meanwhile, our freedom to make our own medical decisions - on which life and death can depend - was to be quietly taken from us and transferred to our betters in Washington ... If the current legislation does not entail the transmission of all our individual medical records to Washington, it will take only an administrative regulation or, at most, an Executive Order of the President, to do that. With politicians now having not only access to our most confidential records, and having the power of granting or withholding medical care needed to sustain ourselves or our loved ones, how many people will be bold enough to criticize our public servants, who will in fact have become our public masters?” (Sowell).

Did you actually think the pantheon of Washington deities would submit to the same health care plan they give us? If this system is so good, why aren’t they going to be participants in it? When we miss a mandated payment and penalties/fees start accruing, will the army of compassionate IRS agents understand our predicament and sign-off on our medical treatment? Or will they kick us to the curb with their jackboots? If healthcare is a “right” and we are refused expensive medication, can our surviving spouse sue the government?

- ✓ “And, if those services are not provided without charge, should [we] be able to call for criminal sanctions against those persons for violating his rights to health care?” (Williams).

I know who we should be able to file criminal sanctions against – the names of all the lying members of Congress who voted for this bill. When this rollover scheme is in place (replacing Medicare and Medicaid), and a committee of Soylen Green bureaucrats rejects our petition for a life-saving procedure, will we have legal recourse or will we be reduced to taking our final toxic meds and selecting our last Netflix video? No, we won't get to that flashpoint immediately, but it isn't difficult to predict how things will begin.

- ✓ “Cost overruns, fraud, additional coverage extended to groups, rising deficits in the program, lower payments to physicians, lower payments to hospitals, delays in payments, rising taxes on the rich, rationing by doctors, hospitals, and government, delays in treatment, assembly line medicine, and a search for scapegoats” (North).

Thank God my appendectomy is over before the new system kicks in. Because I can see in my mind's eye a committee rejecting my application for emergency surgery with fake tears in their eyes. “It says right here on your medical records that you sympathized with Tea Party rabble-rousers, which automatically places your Quality of Adjusted Life Years (QALY) in the red zone.” Your only remaining option is to pay the prescribed ‘handling fee’ by linking your bank account to the PPP system (Politburo PayPal). Bribery by any other name ceases to be bribery, right?

- ✓ “Everyone is aware of the corruption and outright bribery which was used to get 219 votes in the House. It brings to mind the old saying that an honest politician is one whom, when bought, stays bought. The problem here is that these politicians were bribed with the public's money. If Obama had taken the bribe money out of his own pocket, that would have been very bad. But instead he stole money from us to bribe our own congressmen to kill us. This stealing of money by the executive branch is also unconstitutional” (Katz).

Do I seem jaded by those who are representing us in Washington? If not, then I guess I should crank my righteous indignation up to the next level. I'm not alone in my cynicism, but that is only a minor consolation when dealing with government corruption and criminality. For the moment, I continue to seek comfort in those who see the same writing on the wall.

- ✓ “The last thing we needed, in a country staggering under deficits and debt, a sluggish economy and an unaffordable entitlement structure, was a new Rube Goldberg entitlement. The last thing we needed was ObamaCare” (Jenkins, Jr.).
- ✓ “The monstrous health bill needs to be seen as part of a comprehensive attack on the US economy” (Jackson).
- ✓ “The health care legislation passed by Congress today is a disgusting socialist and fascist bill, and a monstrous assault on human liberty and sound and truthful economic/financial analysis” (Sperduto).
- ✓ “Governmentalizing, and thereby controlling through an appropriate bureaucratic apparatus, the providing of medical, accident, and old age care and of death (burial) benefits seemed an obvious way to put the reins on laissez-faire capitalism as well as on labor” (Palyi).
- ✓ “Am I suggesting that socialized medicine of the kind being promoted in America today leads inevitably to holocaust and mass murder? No. But I am saying it is a necessary prerequisite for government-directed holocaust and mass murder to occur. It's also clear that the kind of state-enforced medical rationing and the politicization of medicine observed in Germany before and during Hitler's reign of terror would not be possible without that first step of nationalized health care” (Farah & Sibson).

We need to repeal this unconstitutional bill and start over with a privatized, grass-roots effort.
